DR. DOUGLAS L. POTTER SUCCUMBS AT CHICAGO

Youthful Physician Dies Following Hurried Aug 25 Operation 1936

Funeral arrangements for Dr. Douglas L. Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin M. Potter, who died early Tuesday morning in a Chicago hospital, have not yet been made. With him at the time of his death were his mother and his brother, Richard B. Potter, who will bring the body back to West Palm Beach for services and burial.

The death of the 27-year-old physician came as a great shock to his many friends here who had known him both as a child and a young man. He was taken ill on Sunday, August 16, while playing golf, and rushed to the hospital where a series of operations were performed. They were necessitated by an appendicitis operation several years ago, it was learned here. Hope for his recovery was held up until word of his death was received about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning by his family here. His mother had gone up to join him shortly before he became ill, and his brother, when word of his illness became alarming.

Born March 27, 1909, in West Palm Beach, Douglas Potter lived his early life here, where he attended school, graduating first from Eckler Private School and later Palm Beach High School in 1926. In the latter institution his leadership was attended by his winning of the citizenship award. In 1930 he graduated from the University of North Carolina, from which he went on to Rush Medical College at the University of Chicago. He was interne at St. Luke's Hospital there, and in June, 1935, received his degree of Doctor of Medicine. After working with the Northwestern Railroad, he accepted a position on the staff of the United States Marine Hospital in Chicago where he was working when he was taken ill. He was a member of the Beta Theta Phi Fraternity and an honorary medical fraternity.

Surviving in addition to his parents are his brothers: Richard B., Paul W., city attorney, J. Theodore and Gordon M.; a sister, Miss Ellen Potter; his grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Willson; a number of cousins including Mrs. Raymond H. Ploeckelman, Mrs. Jack Willson, Maurice E. Holley; an aunt, Mrs. F. E. Holley; uncles, Jack S. Willson, of West Palm Beach, James Willson of Paris, and other relatives.

POTTER RITES WILL BE HELD HERE TODAY

Memorial Services For Doctor Also Scheduled At Chicago

At the same hour that funeral services are being held here this afternoon for Dr. Douglas L. Potter, memorial services will be held at St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago, where he died early Tuesday morning, for friends and fellow doctors there.

Services here will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church with the Rev. H. Irving Louttit in charge. Burial will be at Hillcrest, and the following friends will serve as pallbearers: Bertram D. Cole, Jr., Donald H. Conkling, Jr., Dr. L. M. Rozier, Dr. Frederick K. Herpel, Stafford B. Beach, Albert L. Rankin, Jr.

The casket will not be opened at the church, but friends who wish to may go to Ferguson's Chapel until 3 o'clock this afternoon. Accompanied by his mother, Mrs. B. M. Potter and a brother, Richcard B. Potter, the body arrived Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Potter, who went to Chicago, shortly before her son was taken ill, has joined Mr. Potter and the family at 277 Cordova Road.

The 27-year old physician succumbed after a brief illness following several operations, undertaken in an effort to save his life. A member of an old pioneer family, he was a native of West Palm Beach and was widely known here. In addition to his parents he was survived by four brothers, Richard, Paul, Theodore and Gordon; a sister, Miss Ellen Potter; a grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Willson, and a number of other relatives here.

Class Poem

'Twas four long years ago
We set sail on the sea of Life—
With oars in hand and steadfast hearts
We began our course of strife.

Tear of the voyage ne'er entered our minds,
Of its dashing billows, or boisterous winds,
For our motto was, "He who seeks finds"—
And with this we were sure to win.

So with our teachers as our pilots,
In that stately ship, "Old Palm Beach High,"
We sailed, slowly at first, from harbor,
Determined to get our treasure, not try.

And now the shore is approaching,
"The Land of Golden Opportunity" is nigh,
With light hearts, yet tender memories,
We leave our ship, "Old Palm Beach High."

But this is not the end of our journey—
We have yet a high mountain to climb,
For success is a mountain of toil and heartaches,
But the top is happiness sublime!

So let us start again on our journey,
Though each a different direction may wind—
Let us strive to reach the top of the ladder,
And keep as our motto, "He who seeks finds."

MARGARET YORK.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1926, being of sound mind and body, of our own free will and accord, knowing that the happy four years of our high school career is at a close, do hereby and hereon declare this to be our last will and testament, and do name the Class of '27 sole administrator.

We do bequeath:

To the Class of '27 and all classes to come, our high school, and all the rights pertaining thereto and enjoyed by us in the year of 1926.

To the Athletic Association we give the faithful services of Frank T. Hanlon and Miss E. Timberlin, our coaches, who have helped make this one of the best athletic years in the history of Palm Beach High.

To the Junior Class, in

1. The long waited for privilege of occupying the front row seats in chapel.
2. Our Senior Hall.
3. Senior skip day.
4. Miss Oldham, our dear home room teacher, who takes great interest in her boys and girls.
5. A portion of our remarkable intelligence and ability, with earnest hope that they will make good use of these commodities, which, although easily spared from the command of the Senior Class, we should dislike very much to see them used unwisely.

To the Sophomores:

1. Our permission to give to athletics as many prominent players as we have given.
2. "Our hundred excuses for thinking," by Dewitt Marshell.
3. "Simple Aids to Beauty," by Dick Drumm.
4. "How to Be Happy Though Dumb," by Dub Wallace.

It is our wish that each and every member of this class peruse these careful thoughts and give due consideration to each one.

To the Freshmen:

The dignity, poise, and high scholarship which each Senior has strived for and attained.
To Bobby Johnson, the never-failing pep and enthusiasm of Gilbert Betschick.
To Margaret Long, the dainty and petite ways of Beth Harris.
To Jack Haynes, the loud and boisterous ways of Marshall DeWitt.
To Sally Lawton, one copy of "How To Be Happy Though Married," by Grace Noble.
To Will McRae, Ben Sweeting's popularity amongst young ladies.
To Lenore Weadock, the elf-like appearance of Phoebe Ball.
To David Sanderson, Banzai Currie's place on the football team.
To Muriel Stevens, the parking space of Katherine Macdonald.
To Winifred Hurley, the chewing gum of James Skipper.
To Margaret Bates, the everflowing, sparkling wit of Tillie Gosch.
To Frank Hirsh, the Charleston ability of Clinton Green.
To Grace Hart, the high scholarship of Margaret Carthew.
To Wesley Jackson, the loud-speaker of Sidney Bergman.
To George Allen, the school-girl complexion of Dot McCormick.
To Dorothy Dickson, the form of Adelaide Smith.
To James Wolfe, Joe McElheny's Locomobile.
To Mildred Storey, the late hours kept by Blanche Kellow.
To Warren Greathouse, the ability of Dub Wallace to play the clarinet.
To Helen Philips, Dixie Graham's never-ceasing tongue.
To Marjorie Rowell, Mildred Bazemore's honored position on the basketball team.
To John Nettleton, Ed Maas' flourishing moustache, which he raised for the banquet.
To Charlotte Nettleton, the sheikie hair cut of Dorothy Cornell.
To Burwell Johnson, the engineering ability of Francis Mills.
To Constance Perkins, the curly locks of Marjorie Kimball.
To Fred Raulerson, the talkative manner of Verne West.

To Imogene Currie, the stature of Betty Creamer.
To Gordon Williams, the self-appointed vacations of Tommy Stewart.
To Louise Nix, the natural wavy hair of Margaret York.
To Lawrence Maher, the truthful tales told by Walter Forte.
To Nina Brice, the sun-kis't locks of Gertrude Pointek.
To Lee Findley, Alfred Olsen's famous blue socks.
To Margaret Campbell, the self-assurance of Henrietta Idner.
To Earl Smith, the prepared lessons of Carl Turner.
To Lucille Moore and Amy Fenno, Blanche Wallack's much-envied skill in applying the lipstick.
To Very Rouse, the ungentlemanly ways of Harold Weissert.
To Myrtis Medlin, the athletic ways of Sylvia Richmond.
To Ivan Gale, the rough ways of Jack Tapper.
To Grace Powell, Miriam Daughterty's vanity box.
To Leon Jones, Wallace MacPherson's knack of clogging.
To Beulah Stone, the tender marks of Margaret McQuire.
To Jasper Whidden, the wild, troublesome ways of John Quincy.
To Olive Madden, the girlish giggle of Lucille Brown.
To Franklin Fulce, Carl Arpin's long basketball shots.
To Ruth Downey, the dramatic ability of Bonnie Jean Carrington.
To Pinkus Schrebnick, the dreamy eyes of Goode Cabanne.
To Selma Widell, the winning smile of I'Louise Hartshoree.
To John Metcalf, Ed Boggess' costume of the wide open spaces.
To Cordelia Slater, Adeline Dozier's knack for wrecking Chryslers.
To Leonard Adams, Dick Drumm's place on the baseball nine.
To Leon Jones, the musical ear of Gordon Simonson.
To Wilhelmina Brandenburg, the personality of Charlie Coleman.
To John Hamilton, the aristocratic manners of John Lewis.
To Kathleen Thomsen, the ability of Wilsie Dwyer to talk at all times sans permission.
To Howard Perry and Harvey Pierce, Wallace MacPherson's extensive knowledge in Spanish.
To Leona Putman and Mildred Wilmarth the childish innocence of Libby Karr.
To Hilburn Himes, the management of the basketball team so successfully carried out by Douglas Potter.
To Grace Yorkstown, the hot line of Mary Lawton.
To Forrest Bell, the athletic ability of Paul Jones.
To Luella Marshall, the reducing charts of Helen Carmichael, which are guaranteed to eliminate pounds weekly.
To Fern Haitt, the dependent ways of Louise Reynolds.
To Ruth Mundy, the maidenly reserve of Icona Dodge.
To Thelma Osborne, Evelyn Sparks' interpretation of bug-house fables.
To Myrtis Medlin, the studious ways of Frances MacPherson.
To Helen Pieper, the Overland that so faithfully serves Jean Bland.
To Charlotte Bogle, the lengthy lines of Alice Best.
To Alice Bell Wolfe, the angelic poses of Evelyn Godwin.
To Vena Spear, the poetic ability of Evelyn Fleming.
To Gertrude Glasser, the frivolous and vamping ways of Martha Lucille Harper.

In witness whereof we do hereunto subscribe our hands and seals this eleventh day of June.

Class Prophecy

The Future Is What You Make It

THERE have been many prophecies made before, dealing with things of different shapes, sizes, and colors, but I think you will agree with me that this, the prophecy of the Class of '26, is the most remarkable one yet published, not because of the ability of the writer—oh, no!—but because of the wonderful ability of the students to make their desires and ambitions come true and fulfill themselves in such a marvelous manner. I will tell you how I happened to discover the occupations of my Senior companions of '26 about ten years after my departure from Palm Beach High School.

One day as I was reading a very old book about the ancient Egyptians, I came upon an old and faded piece of yellow paper, wrinkled and discolored with age. It took quite a time to discipher it, for it was written in Latin, but as I had read Latin in high school I finally managed to make out the substance of it:

> "Whoever uses this formula and burns it at midnight, when all is dark and everyone has retired to rest, will be able to see the image of the person who is called out of the smoke, and be able to tell their position in the world and the work they are accomplishing."

(I will not be table to write the formula, as I lost it in the excitement of seeing all my old school chums again.)

That same night I followed the directions to a "T" and as I was waiting for something to happen my room was suddenly filled with a bluish smoke and I became like one in a trance. Out of this smoke came, one by one, my old classmates as I called their names.

First came Grace Noble, who I could plainly distinguish washing the dishes. It was the same old Grace, only a little older, and I could see the wedding ring on her finger as she playfully tossed the dishes on the shelves.

Dub Wallace appeared next, sitting comfortably in an arm chair playing his clarinet, while Grace finished her work. We can surmise what happened to them!

Next came Beth Harris and Dot McCormick, who I remember wanted to teach kindergarten, but lo, and behold, they were posing for ads on how to get thin by exercising. Beth posed for the picture before taking exercises, and Dot for the one after taking.

Why, here comes my old pal, Kay Macdonald, who wanted to be a dress designer, but the women now wear such scant dresses that, from all appearances, she has turned her talent to making wigs for young men in the tobacco business who are getting bald.

Now I see Gilbert Betshick, who didn't want to do anything in particular, and still doesn't.

Well, Dixie Graham, this is a surprise! Dixie wanted to be an elocutionist and direct plays, but she talked so much in school that she had to go to a sanitarium to rest up and catch her breath.

Gordon Simonson now appears in the dim light. He wanted to be a preacher, but he married, and now his wife seems to be so superior to him in this line that he decided to give it up and be a loafer.

Now Adelaide Smith enters. She aspired to be an actress, but alas, Adelaide has become fat, and is now the fat lady in a circus.

Who is this? Why, James Skipper, I thought that you would at least be a great orchestra leader, as you had to leave school every afternoon to take a music lesson—and now you have a job blowing the whistle on the ferryboat.

Phoebe Ball now appears. She wished to become an artist, but she painted a picture of a vegetable garden that was so real she tried to eat some of it, took sick with painter's colic, and does not seem to have recovered from the shock.

Here comes Joe McIlheny, who was always such a sheik. He went in the movies and is now a world-famous woman impersonator.

I see now Adeline Dosier, who just wanted to be somebody's darling, and now she operates a matrimonial agency, finding darlings for unfortunate men.

Douglas Potter now appears on the scene. He wanted to be an electrical engineer, but Douglas' gift of powerful speech made him a great salesman. He now seems to be trying to persuade an Eskimo to buy a fur-lined bathtub.

Next I see Blanche Kellow, who wanted to be an interior decorator, but she appears to be decorating the store windows with advertisements about Girl Reserves and their work.

Well, Clinton, I remember you wanted to be a great orator, and now you are a bus driver advertising Palm Beach's most noted sites.

Blanche Wallock comes in now. Can you imagine it? She wanted to be an interior decorator, but she spurned the love of so many sheiks that she is now demonstrating radio loud speakers.

Can that be Wallace Macpherson? He was a great French student, and wanted to be an interpreter, but he married, and he spends his time trying to interpret what his wife says. She stutters.

Aha! Here comes Bonnie Jean Carrington, who wanted to teach history in college. She is now teaching the Y. W. C. A. girls to eat peas with their knives. Rah for Bonnie Jean!

Is that Lucille Brown? I know she wanted to be an artist, but she couldn't stand the smell of paint, so she got a job on a street corner selling many flavored lipsticks, guaranteed to stick.

Hello, there's Suzanne Lewis! Are you a designer of dresses, as you said you would be? No, I see you are a vamp, and have designs on all the men.

Say, here's Ed Boggess, who was going to be a great player and smash the balls across the net. He is now flipping flapjacks in Buddy's restaurant.

Icona Dodge now enters. She wished to be the world's marathon Charleston dancer, but got the "Charleston knee," and is now campaigning against it. If you want to learn the dangers of the Charleston, go to Icona.

Look who's here—Banzai Currie, my old friend. He was going to play in an orchestra, but he made the players laugh and forget their work, so they put him in Keith's vaudeville, and you can see him at the Kettler soon if you hurry and buy tickets.

Evelyn Godwin wanted to be a grand opera singer, but what is she doing? Why she is calling stations between Jacksonville and Florida on the Orange Blossom Special. Ray for Evelyn.

Oh, my, here comes Paul Jones, who wanted to be the world's greatest athlete, but he tried to be an iceman like Red Grange and nearly froze to death, so now he shovels coal in an ocean liner.

Here comes Henriette Idner, whose life ambition was to get rid of her curls, so she went to Tillie Gosch, who kept a beauty parlor. Tillie had just invented a machine for making curly hair straight, so Henriette was fixed right up and went on her way rejoicing.

If that isn't Walter Fort, our poet! He wrote so many poems about love that he became lovesick and finally married.

Why, Sylvia Richmond, where is your tennis racquet? What! You played Suzanne Lenglen and were so ashamed when she beat you that you haven't acquired your proper appetite since the fatal day! Poor Sylvia!

Can you guess what Sidney Bergman is now? He wanted to be a cheer leader for Yale, but they said he had a wonderful voice and now he is singing in grand opera.

And how are Mildred Bazemore and Betty Creamer? They wanted to be nurses, but, behold, they are now toe dancers on Broadway, nursing the footlights.

Oh, why here is Tommy Stuart and Louis Recio, who wanted to leave school and seek their fortunes. They are now in a reformatory for trying to persuade innocent children to run away from school.

For goodness sake, here is Jean Bland! She wanted to be an organist, but is now a surgeon, cutting the organs out of others.

Now comes Jack Tapper, who wanted to be an electrician, but the police caught him sparking on a park bench, so Jack is now in jail.

Here is Alice Best, who desired to be an artist, but her pictures were criticised so that she became a cartoonist and is now drawing "Spillie the Spoiler" in the Palm Beach Post.

I saw Alfred Olsen, who wished to be a doctor, but Alfred made too many mistakes, and is now an undertaker, trying to cover them up.

Charlie Coleman and Dorothy Cornell now enter. I remember that typing was their ambition, but they married and told me that their husbands were just the right type.

Who is this? John Quincey, I'll declare! He wanted to be a contractor, but he contracted a disease from talking too much, and is residing in the same sanitarium with Dixie Graham.

Next I saw Ethel Sparks, who really wanted to be a school teacher, but ended up by writing a book called "How People Become Crazy."

Hello, there, John Lewis! I remember John wanted to be a hobo, but he got caught, so is now demonstrating the latest fashions worn by the Prince of Wales.

Now three girls appear. Why, they are Evelyn Fleming, Libby Karp, and Wilsie Dwyer, who wanted to be journalists. They wrote a book called "The Old-Fashioned Girl of Today," and their book was put in the museum as a curiosity.

Verne West enters next. He aspired to be an architect and build houses in Palm Beach, but he made so much money that he became a millionaire and is now an able politician!

Aha! Here is Margaret York, who desired to lead the life of a tragic actress on the stage. But one day she accidentally stabbed herself while playing in one of Shakespeare's plays. Poor Margaret!

Here is our old friend, Marshall DeWitt, who wanted to be a "Pussy Foot Johnson," but he made so little money that he joined the "Starvation Army."

Hello, Martha Lucille Harper. Did you get that little cottage you were wishing for? Yes! My goodness, and look at all the children—you are a regular old woman who lived in a shoe, and had so many children she didn't know what to do!

What's this I see, a graveyard? Why, look, there is the grave of Carl Turner, whose greatest ambition was to get China on the radio; when he finally succeeded he died of the shock.

The scene now showed Gertrude Pointek, who was advertising "Golden Glint Shampoo," and how to get that beautiful reddish tinge.

If that isn't Margaret McQuire! Someone asked her if she wasn't Irish, so she is now diligently searching through their family tree to find out.

Next appears Harold Weissert, who wanted to be a miner, but he is now married and his wife keeps him busy digging potatoes.

Here comes Helen Carmichael, Miriam Daugherty, and Margaret Kimball, who had music in mind for their life work, but they became Charleston mad, and are now in an asylum for Charleston-mad dancers.

I now learned that Edwin Layman and Francis Mills had died from over studying in a college, and I felt terribly sorry for them.

Francis Macpherson and I'Louise Hartshorn next appear in my vision. They both wished to be secretaries, and are now vieing for position as secretary to President Richard Drumm, who was elected Democratic President by a large majority.

Hello, here are Louise Reynolds and Lucille Andresos, who wanted to do a lot of things. They each have been divorced three times and are still going strong.

Then I saw Will Tydings and Carl Arpin, who decided to take up basketball, and now they are playing on the Pahokee team.

Hey! Here's Mary Lawton, who cut out sister Sally, and is now married to Clinton Green, our high school senior president.

Who comes now? It is Maurice Beinstein and Cabanne Goode who cross my field of vision. They didn't know what they wanted to be, so finally became bootleggers, and are now spending their vacation in cell number 13.

Last, but not least, come Susan Sperry and Ben Sweeting, who became tired of life and jumped in Lake Worth, but were rescued by a moving picture company and are now playing in comedies.

Suddenly the bluish haze became thinner, and I saw a hand writing in gold letters these words: "The Future is what you make it." Then it disappeared, and I came out of my trance and sat very still and thought and wondered at what I had seen and heard.

MARGARET CARTHEW.

The Quest of the White Roll

ONCE upon a time in the Kingdom of the World, there lived a goddess named Success. She was exceedingly beautiful and all men desired her and fought for her smile. But Success was a very fickle Goddess, and every day she found a new sweetheart.

One day Success was especially cruel to one poor man and he grew very angry. The man turned to Success and asked, "How can Mortal hold you?" Success smiled coyly at him and replied, "By bringing me gifts of knowledge. Those who bring me the white rolls that signify knowledge will win my favor, and only those will I smile upon."

The man went down from her palace and sent word out through all the world making known what Success had said and ordinary armies of boys and girls went in search of the rolls.

The Call was heard in West Palm Beach and in the fall of 1922 the commanding officers of Palm Beach High called together their recruits and organized the Army of Students. James Skipper was commander of the Freshman Troops and he led his forces out to battle. They encountered many obstacles in the Halls of Learning, and it was with great difficulty that they surmounted them. In June the Army went into camp to rest.

In September the army was awakened by the clarion call of the bugles and those who had been buck-privates in the Freshman Troops found themselves raised to the dignity of Corporals in the Sophomore Squad.

Douglas Potter took command, and under his expert leadership they conquered all the dangers that lay in their path. In June all who had not fallen by the way pitched camp for a much needed rest.

As Junior Lieutenants the '26 Division under the command of Clinton Green, faced and conquered untold dangers and fierce monsters, and in all ways proved their right to take the place of the retiring Seniors.

September, 1925, arrived and the new Seniors began pouring into headquarters ready and eager for new adventure. Several of them had seen visions of those magic white rolls and were anxious to go in quest of them. Clinton Green had made such an excellent commander that he was again put in charge. Over the Desert of Science, through the Jungle of History, across the French River and through the quicksands of Psychology, we fought our way. Early in June those who had survived came out of the narrow pass through the Mountains of Examinations, and found themselves in a broad, beautiful valley. The sky was of a vivid blue, flecked with fleecy white clouds like tiny white butterflies on blue velvet, and the luxuriant grass was drenched with dew. A flock of snow white sheep were grazing in the valley, and as the Seniors watched —lo, the sheep began to shrink and curl into long white rolls, and tied with ribbon. Each Senior rushed forth eagerly and took one, then all gazed up at the lofty mountains of Hard Work in which Success dwells.

Now that each have the much desired white roll they will choose the rightful paths through the mountains of Life and claim their reward from Success.

Junior Class History

THREE years ago, when this class should have been Freshmen, there were only three grades in High School. This deprived us of the pleasure (?) of being Freshmen. Near the end of the year our absence was discovered, and it was decided that we should take our rightful places as Sophomores the following year.

Scoby Carmichael, as our president, led us so well that we acquired the reputation of being the peppiest class in High School. We were well represented in athletics and showed our pep by coming out second only to the mighty Seniors in the Girls' Popularity Contest.

This year, led by Will McRae, we have made even more brilliant showing. We have impressed the whole school with the remarkable intellect of most of our members, besides having seven football and basketball lettermen and most of the track team.

The material in our class promises to make the best Senior class in the history of our school.

So next year—Watch us Go!!!

Athletics

Athletics

ATHLETIC management in Palm Beach High School has been placed on a plane of maximum efficiency in the past year. At the opening of school two Athletic Associations were formed, one by the boys and one by the girls. The purpose of these two associations was to control and promote all branches of high school athletics. The officers of the Boys' Athletic Association were: Paul Jones, President; Will McRae, Vice-President; John Quincy, Treasurer; Clinton Green, Secretary. Mr. Hanlon, who has general supervision of boys' athletics and gym work, was elected advisor. The officers of the Girls' Athletic Association were: Marcelle Tallet, President; Mildred Storey, Vice-President; Jean Bland, Secretary; Grace Noble, Treasurer. Miss Timblin, who has general supervision of girls' athletics and gym work, was elected advisor.

The Association hoped to finance all athletics entirely without aid from the Merchants' Association, and through skillful management of finances, was able to finance football and basketball. A large quantity of athletic material is on hand now. This material was secured at a very low cost, and will aid greatly next year in putting athletics "over the top" from a financial standpoint.

The coaching this past year was of exceptional quality. Miss Timblin coached the girls' basketball team, and her successful coaching "put over" our Kitten team. Mr. Hanlon is a coach that Palm Beach High is proud of. He is the one responsible for the High School Athletic Association movement. He put out a "scrapping" football team and an "A-1" basketball squad. His eye was quick to note the abilities of a player, and no deserving man was overlooked. "A chance to make good to every man who deserves it" was his motto. Track, self-supporting and without financial aid, "went over big." A great deal of its success is attributed to the coaching ability of Mr. Thornton and his able assistant, Mr. Gallena. More interest has been aroused in track this past year than ever before.

The Athletic Associations and members of the teams are especially proud of the abilities of the following managers:

ASHBY RICE — MILDRED STOREY
DOUGLAS POTTER — DONALD DODD
REGINALD HURLEY

Both associations join in thanking them for their successful efforts during the season '25-'26.

1926 Football Season

WEST Palm Beach completed one of its most successful football seasons since football was introduced in '22. Our schedule was rather small to the previous year's, there being eight games scheduled. We won four, lost three, and tied one. We had a new coach and nearly all new men, as Lytal, Fires, our backfield stars, and Flockman, Burton, and Wright, the mainstays of the line, were lost by graduation. We started with comparatively inexperienced men.

After nearly two weeks of practice we took on the Okeechobee City Hi team. The game was rather a slow one, the day being hot, but it gave the coach an idea of his material. Nearly every man had a chance here, and we took the game with a score of 26-0.

October 17th was a date that will be remembered by every Wildcat. The St. Petersburg 200-pound eleven gave us our worst beating of the year, a 42-0 score. We were out-played, but not out-fought. Several times we came within scoring distance, but of no avail. We could not break their stone wall defense. Several of our men were hurt in the earlier part of the game. This made our chances smaller.

The following week the St. Augustine Dummies met us. This game was not as easy as was expected, but we won by a 7-6 score.

We then got down to work and beat the Florida Military Academy with one touchdown, when Jacobs intercepted a pass and ran to the 15-yard line, and a pass to Sanderson yielded our only score. This was a hard fought game from beginning to end, both teams being held for downs.

On November 7th we encountered the Lemon City eleven. This was a fast game all the way through. Our line worked like a clock, the game ending with 27-0. Lytal and Jones each made two touchdowns.

November 11th being Armistice Day, the Daytona team met us and we were theirs, this being probably the poorest game of the season. Fumbles were frequent, and we could not seem to get started; so the game ended 6-0.

The next week "Beat Miami" was heard all over town. That was one thing P. B. H. S. had never done in football. They came down with the idea of an easy game, but it did not take them long to find out differently. A break in the first part of the game gave them their first touchdown, the first half ending 12-7, Miami, Jones catching a pass from Currie in the second quarter giving us our only touchdown. We came back stronger than ever in the second period and so did they. Although we made more first downs than they did, we could not cross the line, Miami making two more touchdowns, and the game ending 27-7. Wait until next year???

Thanksgiving Day Ft. Lauderdale came up. This was the hardest fought game of the season. Three times they were within our one-yard line; our line held like a mountain, and they could not score. They worked an aerial game on us which we could not stop, but even then, they did not score. Battle as we did we could not cross their goal—so ended the last game of the season, a scoreless game.

Farewell to Senior Letter Men

(Varsity)

Palm Beach High School takes this occasion to thank the letter men of the graduating class for their efforts in defending the school's athletic rating and upholding the honor of the school in competition with other schools.

As they go forward upon the fields of life we feel sure that they will display the same determination, fair play and fighting spirit that characterized their high school days, and Palm Beach High School extends to them its best wishes for success.

Basketball Season

BASKETBALL plunged "head first" into the limelight this year. The team played the "snappiest" series of games ever played by a Palm Beach team. A great deal of enthusiasm was aroused at the games, and the dances that were given in the gym after each game were enjoyed by all.

Those who saw the first game will not forget the rare form shown by Captain "Junior" Jones, who placed practically all the points placed by our team in this game, and whose remarkable skill in shooting baskets won praise on all sides and established his status as a basketball captain. "Fighting Fred" Raulerson was another one of the mainstays of the team, showing up particularly well on the defensive. Bill Tydings displayed remarkable skill in handling the ball; time after time he dribbled the ball through the opposition and either scored the basket himself or passed to another member of the team in a position to score.

Other members of the "Scrappin' Wildcats" who showed up well are" Lanky" Sanderson, C. Arpin, "40" Forte, "T. Willard" Stewart, and "Bob" Treadgold.

The schedule of games:

Palm Beach	25	Delray	24
Palm Beach	17	Ft. Pierce	27
Palm Beach	23	Dania	10
Palm Beach	16	Lake Worth	13
Palm Beach	17	Stuart	25
Palm Beach	21	Dania	20
Palm Beach	22	Stuart	17
Palm Beach	15	Dania	10
Palm Beach	11	Miami	27
Palm Beach	29	Ft. Pierce	15
Palm Beach	9	Ft. Lauderdale	23
Palm Beach	9	Delray	14
Palm Beach	29	Ft. Lauderdale	18
Palm Beach	13	Lake Worth	8

The school is proud of the achievements of those who represent it on the basketball court, and extends to them its appreciation.

Girls' Basketball Season

THE "Kittens" of 1926 completed a stiff schedule under the able instructions of Miss C. E. Timblin. Each game was featured by the fine "form" displayed by the members of the team. This "form" was largely responsible for the enthusiastic backing accorded the team by the student body, as their record of victories was far less "impressive."

Graduation claimed three of our most competent players. Palm Beach High School wishes to thank Adelaide Smith, Mildred Bazemore, and Phoebe Ball for their services.

P. B. H. S.	6	Delray	30

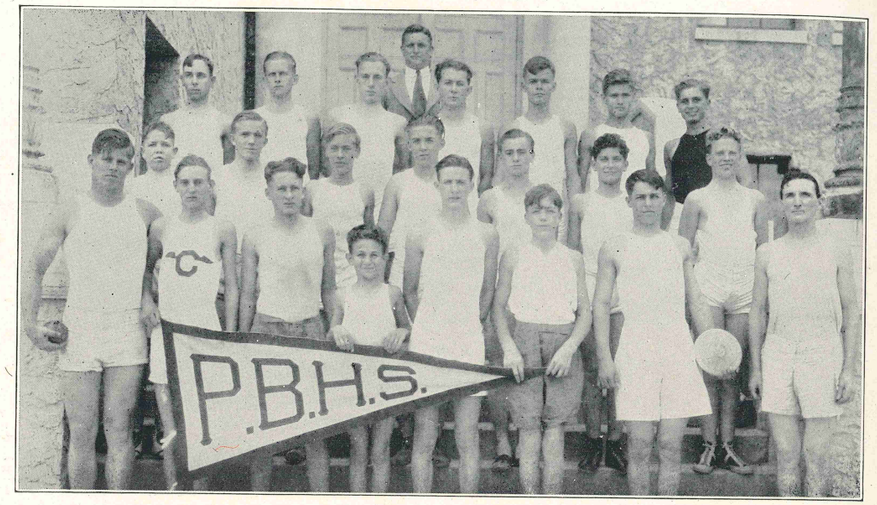
Baseball

THE Baseball Team, though it made many vain efforts to win its first encounters, was unsuccessful, because of the new combinations in the infield as well as battery men. George Allen was elected captain about the middle of the season because of his consistent playing and has shown his ability to give the needed punch at bat. The best games of the season, so far, were U. of F. and the Ft. Lauderdale games, in which the Palm Beach Boys were able to hold up the records of Palm Beach High School. Our best wishes go out to these boys who spend their time making themselves worthy of the letters they will later wear, and to Coach Hanlon, the most sincere, earnest, and hard-working coach we have ever had. To Reginald Hurley, we give the credit for arranging the best baseball schedule in the history of Palm Beach High School.



This year the track team has done better than any year previous. The opening meet of the season was held at Miami, at which we had representatives to carry off honors in several of the events, with the result that P. B. H. S. placed fourth in the meet. First place was won in the shot-put by Charles Johnson, star shot-putter; second places were won by Rowley in the shot-put and by Cabanne in the broad jump. The relay team showed up quite well when they came in third in good time.

On April 10th the school lined up for their annual interclass track and field meet, the Seniors carrying off the honors of the day.

Eight men of the team went up to Gainesville on the 15th to 17th of April for the state meet under the auspices of the university. The only man of the team to place in this meet was Goode Cabanne, who won second place in the broad jump. All the other men showed good form against the select men of the state.

On April 24th the first Tri-County Track and Field Meet was held on the Municipal field with only two schools represented. The result of the meet was that P. B. H. S. was nosed out by her rival, Lauderdale, by the score of 68 to 47.

There yet remain two meets for the boys to show their colors in, and we expect them to do the school credit.

With the next season there should be a splendid spirit among the boys, and we predict a better season than ever.

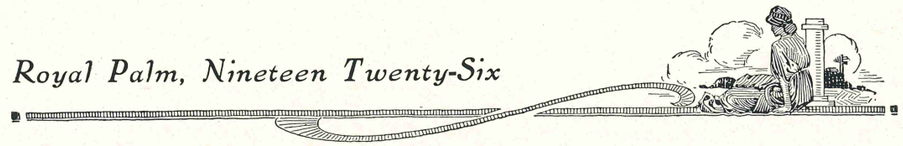
Organizations



Hi-Y Club

THE Hi-Y Club was organized this year for the first time in Palm Beach High. The officers were as follows: Clinton Green, President; Will McRae, Vice-President; Edward Boggess, Secretary; and Edward Maas, Treasurer.

Although this is the club's first year, it has gained great headway and carried through a constructive program. Delegates were sent to the Second Annual Congress of Florida Hi-Y Clubs, which was held in March at Lakeland; and the Hi-Y Club is indebted to this congress for many ideas which helped to make the club a success. Even greater things may be expected next year, since Will McRae was elected president along with the election of new officers. Membership roll: Clinton Green, Will McRae, Ed Boggess, Ed Maas, Douglas Potter, Will Tydings, Albert Dunn, Brown Kishpaugh, Gordon Simonson, Paul Jones, Joe McElheny, W. B. Wallace, Banzai Currie, Hilburn Hines, Harvey Pierce, Gilbert Betschick, John Brown, Ashby Rice, Scoby Carmichael, Joe Moss.

The Girl Reserves

The Girl Reserves is a club which, although only organized this year, is already having a fine influence over the girls of P. B. H. S. The Girl Reserves have a splendid code which they are striving hard to live up to. The members of the club are planning to do quite a bit of charity work. They are building up a fine club, and expect to have a large number of girls to carry out the purposes of the Girl Reserves next year.

Miss Ruth Bourne has made a splendid sponsor for the club. The officers are:

Blanche Kellow . . . . . President
Lucille Brown . . . . . Vice-President
Bonnie Jean Carrington . . . . . Secretary
Mildred Bazemore . . . . . Treasurer

Popularity Contest

The Popularity Contest is in full swing and keen rivalry is being displayed between the classes.

The following girls were chosen Popular Girls in their respective classes:

MARGARET CARTHEW . . . . . Senior
WINIFRED HURLEY . . . . . Junior
HELEN MOYER . . . . . Sophomore
JANE ARCHER . . . . . Freshman

Owing to the late season of the year in which the contest started, a different award is being given to the Popular Girl. In former years the winner has been given a half-page picture in the annual, but this year a beautiful silver loving cup is being awarded.

The girls are so well matched in beauty and popularity that everyone is looking forward to the closest race in the history of Palm Beach High's Popularity Contest.

They're off!!!

Miss Margaret Carthew, '26

Who was chosen the most popular girl of the class of '26 in their Freshman Days, again represents her class as a candidate for the position of the school's most popular girl. Miss Carthew enjoys great personal beauty and extensive popularity—a winning combination.

Miss Winifred Hurley, '27

Chosen by the Junior Class and backed by them to win the contest. Miss Hurley has "stepped out" this past season and her admirers are legion. Pep, blue eyes, dimples and a smile—Watch out Seniors!!!

Miss Helen Moyer, '28

The Sophomore candidate for the highest honor the school can bestow on its fair sex. Miss Moyer is the strikingly attractive type, possesses friends in all classes in the school, and the Sophomores firmly believe that they have picked the winner.

Miss Jane Archer, '29

Attractive candidate of the Freshman Class. Although this is her first year in Palm Beach High, she has already found a warm spot in the heart of the school. Her big brown eyes, beautiful bobbed hair and pretty smile has achieved popularity for her. Her kind nature and gentle disposition have gained friends for her. The Freshmen expect the most of her.

Junior-Senior Banquet

ON the night of March 26, the Juniors entertained the Seniors with the annual banquet at the Mirramar Inn. The table was in the shape of a giant horse-shoe and beautifully decorated in the colors of the two classes, lavender and green. This color scheme was also carried out in the canopy of crepe paper streamers, which formed a tent-like covering over the table, and in the balloons which floated about. At each place was a little gift from the Junior Class and each was accompanied by a witty remark about the receiver.

Will McRae, as president of the Junior class, was toastmaster and introduced the speakers. Those responding were: Clinton Greene (Senior class president), Miss Johnnie Williams (Senior sponsor), Mrs. Gilbert (Junior sponsor), Mr. C. D. Ehrman (Junior sponsor), Tom Stewart (captain of football team), Coach Hanlon, John Paul Jones (captain of boys' basketball team), Adelaide Smith (captain of girls' basketball team), Marshall DeWitt (editor-in-chief of the annual), Reginald Hurley (manager of baseball team), and Miss Myldred Storey (chairman of the banquet committee).

After the banquet a dance was held in the dining room of the Inn, and dancing was enjoyed until the wee hours of the morning. Music was furnished by the College Club Orchestra.

Never, in the history of Palm Beach High, has a more enjoyable affair been given, and the honor was highly appreciated by the Class of '26.

The Game Called Football

JONES kicked off to Stewart for seven yards, who returned the ball valiantly for two feet. Time called out, Stewart suffered from disjointed part in the hair. Trainer Dinky Lewis trotted out on the field with comb and hair tonic. Lytal dashed ferociously through a broken field before being downed by MacRae; Dunn tripped Holtslaw and got his team penalized for roughness. Jones then gathered up his Cutex outfit and powder puff lost in the last play; Currie stuttered through tackle, but was stopped before he got through; Jacobs with a curse on his lips thundered through center for a loss; Recio and Raulerson penalized for delaying game. Raulerson sold his head gear to Recio for Four Bucks.

Second quarter something like the first.

Third quarter much worse than either of the two.

Fourth quarter—

Wilson kicked off to Potter, who stubbed his toe and automatically tackled himself. Dunn sat on him. On the next play Wallace confused the signals with those of his gym locker and fumbled. Carmaechal fell for Sanderson. Stuart charlestoned around right end, then shuffled for nine yards. Dunn hit Jones, who made a ringing appeal to the referee for protection. Recio got his side-burns tangled up with those of Holtslaw's, received by good Samaritan Hospital, both doin' nicely. Currie carried off the field suffering from concussion of the brain; Quincy had a nervous breakdown and wept. Sanderson and Carmaechael didn't hear the whistle and remained on the field discussing the 18th Amendment.

Skipper without a wise crack.
Mildred Bazemore in a Cecil DeMille production.

Mr. Buess: "Joe, what are you doing back there? Are you learning anything?"
Joe Mc.: "Oh, no, I'm just listening to you."

* * *

Johnnie W.: "Lady Macbeth did not sit at the table with the other guests, she sat apart on the throne."
Boggess: "Well, didn't she get anything to eat?"

* * *

Miss Badcock: "Tell me all about a nitrate, Inez."
Inez M.: "Well, er—, it's cheaper than day rates."

Little Boy: "Maw, Oh! Maw! Look at the funny man, the circus has come to town."
Mother: "Hush, Joe, hush, that's a P. B. H. S. senior."

Verne West was not a prime favorite with his rich uncle. In vain did he try to impress him, but the old man was not easily impressed. One evening the young man went to his uncle's home for a call and in the course of the conversation asked:
"Uncle, don't you think it would be rather foolish for me to marry a girl who was intellectually my inferior?"
"Worse than foolish, Verne," was the reply. "Worse than foolish, impossible."

Mr. Ehrman: "Did you favor the honor system at the last teachers' meeting?"
Mr. Spaulding: "I surely did, I voted for it five times."

The Letter "E"

Someone has advanced the idea that the letter "E" is the most unfortunate character in the English alphabet, because it's forever in debt, always out of cash, forever in danger, and in hell all the time.
But we can call his attention to the fact that "E" is never in war, always in peace; it is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there could be no meat, no life, and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect, and without it there would be no editors, devils, or news.

Absolutely,
Cricket.

Big Jokes, Imagine These!

Mrs. Betschick: "Come, Gilbert, you'd better get up now and go out and look for a job. You know the early bird catches the worm."
Gil (sleepily): "Aw! I ain't hungry."

George Allen: "Let's play some tennis."
Dee S.: "Naw, the net's broken."
G. A.: "Fine, the net's always in the way when I play."

* * *

Some bird, who is a bug on Shakespeare and baseball, has dug up a bunch of quotations which would make one think the game was going on fine in the day of the immortal bard. Here are the discoveries:

"The play, as I remember, pleased not the million."—Hamlet.
"Now you strike like a blind man."—Much Ado About Nothing.
"Out, I say."—Macbeth.
"I will be short."—Hamlet.
"I will go root."—Richard III.
"Thou canst not hit it, hit it, hit it."—Love's Labor Lost.
"O hateful error."—Julius Caesar.
"A hit, a very palpable hit."—Hamlet.
"He knows the game."—Henry VI.
"He will steal, sir."—All's Well That Ends Well.
"Whom right and wrong have chosen as umpires."—Love's Labor Lost.
"He has killed a fly."—Titus Andronicus.
"What an arm he has."—Coriolanus.
"Let the world slide."—Taming of the Shrew.
"They cannot sit at ease on the old bench."—Romeo and Juliet.
"Upon such sacrifices the gods themselves threw incense."—King Lear.
Any additions to this bright lexicon will be welcome by this department.

1. Marshall DeWitt: "Now let's see—oh, h—l, where did I leave those write-ups?"

2. Clinton Green: "E'gad. This annual sale has got to go over big."

3. Douglas Potter: "Who got this ad; where's the money and the copy?"

4. James Skipper: "Where is that girl's picture? Oh, stick it anywhere."

5. Francis McPherson: "Where is that teacher; where did she go?"

6. Wallace McPherson: "Oh, boy! this joke is going over big."

7. Tillie Gosch: "Where did this girl go? Is she married? Oh, yes."
